FE        Those people that you recruited, you see that they are moving on and they are progressing in the company, and that's a pride because of course it's not your only decision to take a person or to approve a candidate, but if you participate, and in my case, I led the trainee's programme in Argentina, the kids who enter in that programme that today are becoming managers or directors, that's a pride that I feel because I was part of that process.
